

Risk prevention is a basic activity for PATEL. All of those who directly or indirectly form part of the company must be aware of its principles and collaborate in their achievement. This policy is therefore notified to all people working for the organisation, as well as being made available to all parties concerned.

PATEL declares the following occupational risk prevention commitments and principles:

- ❑ We agree to take all necessary measures to identify, assess and control all possible occupational risks, giving our workers maximum protection.
- ❑ We promote the training, information and awareness-raising of the workers, providing all necessary measures in their performance.
- ❑ We guarantee the participation of the company workers through their legally established representatives, favouring all forms of communication between the members of the organisation.
- ❑ We aim to achieve the highest possible level of health and safety at work, meeting applicable legislation and promoting continuous improvement in preventive action.
- ❑ We adapt to technological advances by bringing in the most appropriate machinery and equipment to facilitate and improve our workers' working lives.
- ❑ We promote the prevention of damage and harm to health in all areas of the organisation. We also promote teamwork and cooperation between the different levels of the company, just as with our customers, collaborators and suppliers.
- ❑ We take care of the health of our workers and not only by the vigilance of their health, but also through our own company medical service.

Occupational risk prevention forms part of the set of company policies, so all managers, middle managers, technicians, workers, suppliers and collaborators must assume their responsibilities in the area.
